Security assistance to Pakistan

*327. SHRIMATI SHOBHANA BHARTIA:
PROF. ALKA BALRAM KSHATRIYA:

Will the Minister of EXTERNAL AFFAIRS be pleased to state:

(a) whether according to a study by the US experts Pakistan has received $ 1.8 billion as security assistance from US for the war against terrorism, but the weapons financed under it are more useful in countering India than fighting Al Qaida and Taliban;

(b) whether US has recommended that the billions of dollars given to Pakistan in aid to fight terrorism be tied to its performance;

(c) whether India has always been urging USA not to provide funds to Pakistan as they are used against India; and

(d) if so, to what extent India's stand has been proved by this study report?

THE MINISTER OF EXTERNAL AFFAIRS (SHRI PRANAB MUKHERJEE): (a) According to a study conducted by Craig Cohen and Derek Chollet of Center for Strategic and International Studies, a Washington based think-tank, out of the $10 billion of assistance provided by US to Pakistan over the past five-plus years, roughly 18 per cent or $1.8 billion has gone toward security assistance. According to this report, this assistance is often justified as playing a critical role in the war on terrorism, whereas, in reality, the weapons systems are often 'prestige items' to help Pakistan in the event of war with India. The study emphasises that few of these weapons are likely to provide much help in rooting out Al Qaeda or the Taliban.

(b) The 'Implementing Recommendations of the 9/11 Commission Act of 2007' signed into law by President Bush on August 3, 2007 has prescribed limitations on US security assistance to Pakistan for FY 2008. The Act states that authorisation for appropriations for subsequent fiscal years shall be determined by the extent to which the Government of Pakistan displays demonstrable progress, inter alia, in "preventing Al Qaeda and other terrorist organizations from operating in the territory of Pakistan, including eliminating terrorist camps or facilities, arresting members and leaders of terrorist organizations, and countering recruitment efforts".

(c) and (d) Government of India's position in this regard is well known. We are against an arms race in our region. Government's concerns have been expressed to the US and other nations. Government will take all necessary steps to safeguard India's security.
